FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

RIA and AiME Announce Partnership

Mt. Laurel, NJ (October 5, 2020) – The Restoration Industry Association (RIA) and AiME Estimate Review announce a partnership to advance knowledge in loss estimating through the use of technology and education.

RIA's mission is to educate, advocate and elevate. RIA offers an expansive list of benefits for restoration contractors including advocacy, certification, education and training. RIA also hosts the International Restoration Convention + Industry Expo which highlights the latest technology, industry trends, best business practices, and advocacy developments.

With an ever-growing database of rules, AiME's instant estimate review offers comment and education on each estimate, allowing for a consistent, fair, and intelligent instant review. Collaborating with users across North America, and the resources of industry experts, AiME allows anyone to immediately augment their ability to write and review insurance estimates for homes and businesses.

"With both the RIA and AiME having a focus on education within our industry, the mutual benefits of this partnership are an exciting step forward, providing the RIA membership an efficient resource that provides knowledge, consistency and unity," said Chris Tilkov, VP of AiME.

Both the RIA and AiME are committed to providing credible resources and education to advance knowledge in the cleaning and restoration industry. Through this partnership, the RIA and AiME will work together to promote education in the area of estimating insurance-based losses, while AiME offers preferred pricing to the RIA's members to help them save money and increase their bottom line. RIA members can access this members-only benefit at www.restorationindustry.org.
